To Whom it may concern,

We have partnered with Jason Goodgame and The Goodgame Company for many projects including an $8 million greenfield manufacturing facility. I know The Goodgame company has been a provider to a company we purchased for decades with a great reputation and were highly respected. We have been so comfortable with their work and style, we have done many projects on a time and material basis, which is something we do not do as a regular course of business.

The Goodgame Company has provided many types of services to us including, general contracting, fabrication, engineering and logistical support. Being new to the area, Allied has relied on references and problem solution support from them on a regular basis with great results.

In our business, having great partners is essential to being successful in our business. The Goodgame company is one of those. I would highly recommend them to anyone who has a need in the building/construction service area. We will continue to use them in the future for many things.

Sincerely,

William M. Carmean
